

Walking Woman

Beautiful. Love how she emerges. Makes me think of what Walter Benjamin says somewhere about how contained in every state of emergency is the possibility of long-buried things rising up to the surface. And something else altogether that has to do with her searching, confrontational half-certainty.

Hisham Matar November 2019